The Soggy Dollar Bar, birthplace of the original “Painkiller” rum drink and home to the very first “ring-toss” game known to man, is favored by all who sail or motor into Jost Van Dyke’s White Bay, BVI. And, since there is no dock, people just jump their boats and casually swim ashore to eat and drink with - you guessed it - “soggy dollars.”

(Over)

Voted “The Number One Watering Hole in the World” and “The Best Beach Bar in the Caribbean” more than once, SDB is not only the island’s focal point of daytime activity but tends to get quite lively at times when rowdy ex-patriots motor in from Tortola, St. John and St. Thomas to enjoy a few Painkillers, a flying fish sandwich, watch the natural beauty, and listen to good music.

Shady Guy says, “Why the hell should they have all the fun?”

Now, as a member of the Original Painkiller Club you’ll always feel part of the Soggy Dollar fun whether you’re fighting traffic in the big city or carpooling to soccer practice in the burbs. And it’s FREE! Just complete the two-line application below, pull off your membership card, and you’re an Official OPC Member no matter where in the world you end up.
